MODULE-6

● What are events in Google analytics?

ANS: In Google Analytics, events are user interactions tracked on a website or app beyond simple page views. They capture actions like clicks, form submissions, video plays, downloads, or scrolling. Each event has a name (what happened) and parameters (extra details). In GA4, events are the core of data tracking and include automatically collected, enhanced measurement, recommended, and custom events. They help businesses understand user behavior, measure engagement, and track conversions. In short, events show what users actually do on your site, not just which pages they visit, enabling better decisions and optimization.
